

Trans Army Field Guide: Methods and Tactics of Mossad, KGB, and CIA

Version 1.1 — Espionage Legacy, Psychological Ops, and State Violence Architecture Unmasked (Extended Edition)

INTRODUCTION

Mossad, the KGB, and the CIA represent three of the most feared and mythologized intelligence agencies in modern history. Though born of different empires and ideologies, their goals are similar: control the narrative, destabilize opposition, eliminate threats to the ruling class, and defend elite power through shadow operations, disinformation, infiltration, psychological warfare, and assassination. Each perfected different aspects of modern state suppression—and exported their playbooks globally.

The blueprints they wrote now live inside predictive policing algorithms, international surveillance frameworks, and the counterinsurgency doctrine of countless militaries and police forces. If you want to dismantle empire, you must understand its quiet architects.

This field guide reveals their shared and divergent methods so that rebels today can identify, resist, and outmaneuver the ghosts still operating through fusion centers, private contractors, state-aligned NGOs, and intergovernmental security alliances.

STRUCTURAL OVERVIEW

- CIA (U.S.): Born in Cold War paranoia, the CIA quickly expanded its role from intelligence gathering to active intervention and regime change. It excels in covert paramilitary operations, psychological warfare, foreign political sabotage, media manipulation, and destabilizing economies. Its influence is global, subtle, and deeply embedded in Western capitalism.
- KGB (Soviet Union): Designed to preserve internal control and global ideological dominance, the KGB focused on extensive domestic surveillance, psychological operations, informant networks, and brutal suppression of dissent. While it officially disbanded after the Soviet Union's collapse, its methodologies live on through the FSB and GRU.
- Mossad (Israel): Specializing in foreign intelligence, Mossad is known for surgical assassinations, technological espionage, and diaspora infiltration. It operates globally, often outside formal oversight, with a focus on eliminating existential threats to Israel and collecting intelligence through diasporic communities and tech networks.

Each agency has left a toolkit of repression still in use today. From CIA-backed coup attempts to Mossad's biometric targeting systems to KGB-style surveillance regimes, these tactics now form the infrastructure of 21st-century authoritarianism.

SHARED METHODS OF CONTROL

1. Assassination and Disruption of Leadership

- Disguised poisonings, car bombings, sniper hits, and radioactive agents
- Psychological destabilization of targets through harassment, isolation, and disinformation prior to elimination
- Use of criminal organizations or extremist proxies to create distance and plausible deniability

2. Recruitment of Informants and Turncoats

- Blackmail using sexual, financial, or personal vulnerabilities
- Psychological profiling to identify manipulable personalities
- Deploying informants inside families, movement circles, religious institutions, and prison networks
- “Friendly” recruitment through ideological grooming or offers of power/protection

3. False Flag and Front Organizations

- Creation of fake protest movements or resistance cells to gather names and sabotage from within
- Co-opting NGOs, religious orgs, or humanitarian groups as intel collection fronts
- Staging attacks and framing political enemies to justify crackdowns or delegitimize dissent

4. Narrative Engineering & Propaganda

- Ghostwriting manifestos and seeding fake communiqués to create confusion and discredit movements
- Deploying aligned journalists or influencers to shape public discourse
- Using “controlled opposition” to steer dissident energy into safe, co-optable channels
- Framing resistance as foreign-influenced, mentally ill, or inherently violent

5. Advanced Surveillance Networks

- Pioneering of global signals intelligence (SIGINT) infrastructure, including satellites, tapped cables, and packet sniffing
- Secret agreements with telecoms, app developers, and tech companies
- Monitoring of biometric data via airport kiosks, facial recognition, gait analysis, and behavioral tracking

- Deployment of portable tools like IMSI catchers (Stingrays), spyware implants, and metadata harvesters

6. Torture, Interrogation, and Psychological Warfare

- MKUltra (CIA): LSD, sensory deprivation, trauma mapping, and memory alteration
- KGB interrogation methods: noise torture, forced isolation, sleep disruption, coercive confessions
- Mossad's use of "stress positions," no-touch torture, and third-country black sites
- Leveraging torture not only for information, but as a tool of political theater and deterrence

7. Cultural Manipulation & Infiltration

- Operation Mockingbird: CIA's infiltration of U.S. media, academia, and publishing
- KGB targeting of youth groups, universities, and arts collectives to shape ideology
- Mossad's use of tech start-ups, religious scholarship networks, and diaspora surveillance cells to collect global data
- Weaponizing archetypes and symbols (e.g., "freedom fighter," "enemy of the state") across film, TV, and education

OPERATIONAL CASE STUDIES

- CIA in Chile (1973): Orchestrated economic destabilization, disinformation campaigns, and direct support for Pinochet's coup; blueprint for neoliberal shock policy and anti-left terror.
- KGB & Prague Spring (1968): Psychological disorientation, blackmail of reformists, and mass deportations of organizers; a masterclass in preemptive crackdown against dissent.
- Mossad & Operation Wrath of God: International network of assassinations after the Munich Olympics. Targeted killings in multiple countries with forged passports and no formal accountability.
- Operation Ajax (CIA & MI6 in Iran, 1953): Overthrew elected government of Mossadegh to reassert oil control. Combined economic warfare, media manipulation, and fake protests.
- KGB's Berlin Wall Surveillance State: Mass informant networks, biometric records, psychological operations to induce defection, and family leverage to maintain obedience.

TECHNOLOGICAL LEGACIES IN MODERN POLICING

- CIA → Fusion Centers, Predictive Policing Algorithms, Biometric Border Enforcement
- KGB → Informant-based surveillance, facial recognition city grids, police counterintelligence tactics
- Mossad → Spyware (e.g., Pegasus), targeted surveillance apps, start-up shell companies feeding Israeli military-industrial pipeline

REBEL COUNTERSTRATEGIES

- Build resilient mutual trust circles with regular infiltration checks
- Decentralize leadership: use cell structures, rotate spokespeople, distribute skills
- Use open-source encryption (Signal, Briar, Matrix) and avoid cloud services tied to surveillance states
- Deprogram internalized surveillance by rejecting fear-based silence
- Archive zines, oral histories, and underground media—don't let state narratives define your lineage
- Train movement participants in counterintelligence basics: detect provocation, document bad faith, protect burnout

These agencies built a world of shadows. But we were born in the dark and learned to see what they tried to hide. We know now that the most dangerous weapon is not a gun, a drone, or a camera. It's a lie repeated until we forget the truth.
